

For NanoStudio 2

Overview :

These samples are taken from a recording I made with two young children, a little girl (3 years old) and a little boy (5 years old). They were very happy to sing, talk and make funny noises in the microphone. I selected 136 unique one-shot samples from this session and further split some of the longer ones so there are 259 samples in total. These also include 13 interesting noise samples. All the samples are fun as they are but fell free to mangle them.

The set has 259 samples (23.8 MB unzipped). There are 12 Slate kits and samples are simply mapped to categorize and easily browse the sounds. Don't hesitate to make your own kits that may better suit your projects.

The French Words kits contains words and sentences in French (mother tongue of the children). Their English translation is in the complete list of the samples that is included in the download and it's also available on our website.

All pads are in "One-shot" mode, samples play for their entire length. Some samples are longer, use "Sustain" mode to have them play only as long as the pad is pressed or the length of the note in the part. You can also edit the samples or experiment with the various settings offered by the pad, like level, pan, tuning, envelopes, etc.

Installation:

Users buying the Kids Kits will receive 2 download links. The following formats are included too: Caustic 2 (Android, BlackBerry PlayBook, iOS, Win), wave, sfz, Native Instruments Kontakt 3.5 and Battery 3.

The link to the NanoStudio edition will allow you to download link for a rar file. Extract it on your computer, you will find in it the documentation and a second zip file named "Zvon_Kids_Kits.zip".

This zip contains the kits and the samples. Then use WebDAV to move them to NanoStudio 2.

Or import this second zip in your iPad using email or the Files app or Dropbox or Google Drive for instance. You will then be able to use the "Open in" feature with NanoStudio 2 to install the kits in a single folder. You can then rename the folder if you desire to.

The screenshot displays the NanoStudio 2 interface. At the top, there is a transport bar with a play button, a tempo of 120.0, and a time signature of 4/4. Below this, the 'KITS' and 'SAMPLES' tabs are visible. The main area shows a grid of samples for the 'Laughs 1' kit. The grid is organized into columns (29-32) and rows (A-Z). The samples are labeled with names like 'Boy_main_1', 'Boy_main_2', 'Boy_seq', 'Boy_song', 'Boy_Tee Too', 'French Words 1', 'French Words 2', 'Girl_main 1', 'Girl_main 2', 'Laughs 1', and 'Laughs 2'. The samples are color-coded and numbered, indicating their position in the kit. The interface also shows various controls like 'BROWSE', 'SAMPLE', 'PAD', 'FX BUS', and 'OUTPUT' on the left side.
